Social Justice Oriented Research Study

We are looking for Canadian registered (licensed) and provisional psychologists to take part in a study of barriers and facilitators to support clients of the LGBTQ2 community to develop self-advocacy skills.

As a participant in this study, you will be asked to take part in one face-to-face or online interview and one brief, follow-up email/telephone interview. Participants will discuss their practices and experiences in supporting LGBTQ2 clients to develop self-advocacy skills within counselling and mental health services

Please note that this study is not about clients per se, but about your skills as a psychologist.

For more information about this study or to volunteer, please contact:
